WASHINGTON.

Henley Compelled to Make an Unwilling Correction.

AN IMPORTANT BILL PASSED

Caucus of Democratic Congressmen—Capt. Beecher before the Senate Committee—The River and Harbor Bill, Etc.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Long of Massachusetts, rising to a correction of the record, said that in a speech made some weeks ago the gentleman from California (Henley) had charged that Charles Francis Adams, of the Union Pacific railroad, had committed gross violations of law. He had asked the gentleman to specify what these violations were, and the only answer [illegible] made by the gentleman was that Mr. Adams had himself stated that the matter of free passes given by the Union Pacific cost the government some $2,000 a day. He (Long) had denied the correctness of this statement, but he found that his denial was altogether [illegible]. As it appeared from his published speech, Henley had said that it cost the company $2,000. Mr. Adams in his testimony before the senate committee had stated that free passes cost the company $2,000 a day, but this was not a violation of law, and the statement was accompanied by a modifying remark that many passes were issued to railroad employes. In extending his remarks in the Record Henley had made what purported to be a quotation from Mr. Adams himself, consisting of fifty-eight lines, and containing very severe reflections on the Union Pacific and Mr. Ames, and gentlemen connected with him, in the construction of the road. It seemed to be a quotation from a book or pamphlet written by Mr. Adams in 1869. He found upon examination that the first twenty-four lines of that alleged quotation were words which were taken from that book or pamphlet, but the remaining thirty-four lines were words which Mr. Adams had never uttered, and never written, and which were incorrectly and improperly attributed to him by the gentleman from California. About eighteen months ago an enormous pamphlet had been published, containing a severe criticism on Adams. In this pamphlet appeared the first twenty-four lines of the quotation. Then followed, in different type, certain disconnected passages which had now been put in Mr. Adams's mouth. He knew that the gentleman from California was not guilty of intentionally putting in Adams's mouth words he had never uttered, and he knew that the gentleman would have no objection to having the correction made in the Record.

AN UNWILLING CORRECTION.

Henley said that the gentleman was right in the statement that Henley had attributed certain language to Mr. Adams which he had never uttered or written. When he prepared his speech he remembered that a good many years ago Mr. Adams had written a scathing arraignment of the Union Pacific, its directors, the Credit Mobilier and Oakes Ames. Before the senate committee Mr. Adams had become not only apologetic but eulogistic of the Union Pacific, which he had previously denounced. He (Henley) had thought it a fair matter of criticism for him to criticise Adams's past and present utterances. Not having Adams's pamphlet at hand he had been obliged to rely on what purported to be a correct copy in a newspaper, and he had used it, not dreaming that there was anything in it that could not be properly attributed. He would make the correction, but he wanted to call attention to the precise injury which Mr. Adams fancied he had sustained at his hands. In the part of the quotation which was conceded to be correct the sentiment and denunciation was in exact accordance and entire harmony with that part which had been improperly attributed to Mr. Adams. He could not conceive that that gentleman had suffered injuries at his hands. There were other things in his speech of which Adams could address himself, and could complain about if they were not true. The logical result of the complaint that Mr. Adams had made was that he had no denial to make of the charges made.

THE CHARGES DENIED.

Long then took up the charges in the published speech, and denied them in detail. The first charge was that Charles Francis Adams and his co-directors had criminally violated the law in issuing $[illegible] per cent. collateral trust bonds in 188[illegible]. That transaction had taken place before Adams even became a director. The second charge was that Adams and the directors had violated the law in paying a dividend in 188[illegible] and 1884, in the teeth of the existence of a floating debt of $[illegible]. It was not a violation of law to pay a dividend when there was a floating debt. The third charge was that Adams and the directors had violated the law in placing the endorsement of the Union Pacific on about $15,000,000 of bonds of the Oregon Short Line company. That was perfectly legitimate, and had occurred three years before Adams's connection with the company. The fourth charge was that Adams and the directors had deliberately defrauded assets belonging to the government lien by anticipating payment of the third mortgage bonds. The answer to that was that there was no third mortgage at all.

Henley—Everything I allege there can be proved.

The matter was then dropped.

THE SUNDRY CIVIL BILL.

Randall of Pennsylvania moved to dispense with the morning hour, agreed to, and the house went into committee of the whole (Reagan of Texas in the chair) on the sundry civil bill, Reed remarking that a very sensible wing of the democratic party had control to-day. This was greeted with loud applause on both sides of the house. The pending amendment was that offered by Warner of Ohio, providing that no money appropriated for the bureau of engraving and printing shall be used in printing United States notes of a large denomination in lieu of notes of a small denomination canceled or retired. The amendment was agreed to—[illegible] 8.

[illegible] of West Virginia offered an amendment providing that nothing in the section shall be construed as subjecting appointees in the bureau of engraving and printing to the civil service rules. The amendment was rejected.

The section of the bill concerning the geodetic survey having been reached, according to previous agreement a general debate was in order, after which the house adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—After routine morning business in the senate the bill repealing the preemption and timber culture laws was laid before the senate. At the request of Pugh it was informally laid aside to permit consideration of the bill providing for appointment and compensation of [illegible] district judge for the southern district of Alabama.

[illegible] moved as an amendment the provision of the bill heretofore passed by the senate fixing all district judges' salary at $[illegible] a year. [illegible] the amendment, which was agreed to—the first division relating to salaries by a vote of [illegible] yeas to [illegible] nays, and the second division (prohibiting [illegible]) [illegible]. The bill as amended was then passed.

The bill repealing the preemption and timber culture laws was then proceeded with, and George addressed the senate on the bill.

Stanford stated that the provisions of the bill as amended by the senate would absolutely prevent reclamation of desert lands. There were enormous quantities of such lands, he said, not worth a penny an acre, and they could only be reclaimed by the expenditure of large sums of money. In order to make reclamation possible, he moved to restore certain words already stricken out by the senate.

[illegible] feared the amendment might [illegible] fraud, and opposed it. Stanford's motion was rejected.

The bill then passed—yeas [illegible], nays [illegible].

On motion of Dolph a committee of conference was ordered on the disagreeing votes of the house and senate on the bill.

The Fitz John Porter bill was then laid before the senate. Sewell said it was the same that had passed before. Sewell had the clerk read a number of resolutions of Grand Army posts, urging the passage of the bill.

Logan obtained the floor to reply to Sewell, and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

Peculiar in medicinal merit and wonderful cures—Hood's Sarsaparilla. 100 doses one dollar.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

CAUCUS OF DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSMEN.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—In the caucus to-night the attendance was large, nearly all of the democratic representatives in the city being present, and the proceedings were harmonious throughout. Contrary to common expectation nothing was said directly about the tariff or pension tax proposition. The state of business in the house was discussed, and Speaker Carlisle, by request, ran over the calendar, calling attention to the almost inextricable confusion of special orders on every subject of general importance. After hearing statements the caucus decided to select a committee of three members, which should be charged with the duty of selecting and pushing to a point of action such of the measures as it should deem proper to attempt to pass, and Messrs. Carlisle, Morrison and Randall were named as members of the committee. The sentiment of the caucus seemed to be in favor of passing the appropriation bills and bills declaring forfeiture of land grants, and then adjourning.

Soon after the selection of the committee, Randall rose and asked what the action of the caucus meant—whether it meant adjournment by July 15. There was a hearty chorus of "Yes, yes" from all sides. Rather regretfully, it was observed, Mr. Randall assumed that the action meant also that the appropriation bills and a few bills already on the calendar would be the only measures likely to receive action at this session, and to this assumption there was again expressed a hearty assent. While, as before stated, no direct reference was made to the tariff, [illegible] the caucus came away under the impression that there would be no further effort made this session to consider any tariff bill.

CAPT. BEECHER BEFORE THE SUBCOMMITTEE.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Capt. H. F. Beecher, recently collector of customs for the Puget sound district, was before a sub-committee of the senate committee on commerce to-day to answer charges against him, and to reply to testimony given yesterday by Daniel Kepler [illegible] H. D. Temple. He was accompanied by George [illegible], of Washington territory, who is a witness in his behalf. Capt. Beecher admitted having received $[illegible] from Kepler, to be turned into postal money orders and mailed to parties in the East, and claims that he had given it to Temple, an employe of the railway mail service, with instructions to procure the orders and mail them. Temple denied having received the money and the issue thus became one of veracity between Beecher and Temple. As the money was never received Beecher repaid the amount to Kepler.

Capt. Beecher has submitted to the committee a number of certificates in the form of affidavits. [illegible] F. Carr, postmaster at Seattle, and W. H. H. Learned, postmaster at Port Townsend, state that they personally know both Temple and Beecher; that the reputation of the latter for veracity and integrity is good, and that they would unhesitatingly believe him as against Temple in a matter wherein both were interested or in any matter wherein the veracity of either had to be determined.

TROUBLE IN THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

NEW YORK, June 24.—A Washington special says: There is said to have been a "monkey and parrot" time at the meeting of the civil service commissioners yesterday. Some time ago, it appears, Commissioner Lyman investigated the charges made against the late postmaster of Baltimore, Veazey, who was charged with violations of the civil service law, in appointing men to places, and was found guilty of the charges. Lyman submitted a report to his colleagues, in expectation that they would sign it. They refused to do this in the most emphatic manner. There ensued a heated discussion, in which Lyman told Oberly and Edgerton that they were not carrying out the law in good faith and that they had not the reform of the civil service at heart. Lyman indicated that he would be sustained in his course by the executive, which is said to have greatly troubled "old fossil" Edgerton and Bishop Oberly.

In addition to the charges against ex-Postmaster Veazey, Lyman is to investigate the charges against Collector Hedden, which have been on file some time with the commission, and which it is whispered the president would like to see sustained.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The senate committee on commerce has nearly completed the river and harbor bill. It is possible but not probable that a few unimportant changes may be made at the meeting to-morrow. Items in the house bill have been increased to the aggregate of $[illegible], and others have been decreased to the aggregate of $[illegible], a net increase of $[illegible]. The total appropriation by the senate is $[illegible].

Among some of the most important changes made by the senate committee to lay in the house river and harbor bill, are the following, the amounts given being the totals of appropriations recommended by the senate committee: Oregon—[illegible] bay, $100,000; Coos bay, $[illegible]; Portland harbor, $[illegible]; Cascades, $[illegible]; Columbia river, $[illegible],000.

AGITATORS DISCHARGED.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The following special notice was to-day issued by the general superintendent of the railway mail service: By order of the postmaster general twenty-seven clerks have been removed from the service in different parts of the country for insubordination in conspiring to obstruct the regulation of the service of the department, and to injure its efficiency. They have secretly attempted to form an association with a view to dictate the action of the department, and many of them have also been guilty of deception toward their fellow clerks, by representing the purposes of such association to be merely benevolent, and thus entangling them. The postmaster general says the discharged men threatened a strike or the combined resignation of many clerks, so as to menace the department with embarrassment.

THE PRESIDENT VERY BUSY.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The president was so much occupied to-day in considering a large batch of private pension bills that he denied himself to all callers, and even postponed the regular cabinet meeting. Secretaries Lamar and Whitney, Attorney-General Garland, Postmaster-General Vilas and Acting Secretary Fairchild were promptly in attendance but the president informed them that he would prefer to dispose of the pension bills while his mind was on them rather than take up the business of the cabinet, unless some of the departments had important matters to submit requiring immediate action. As there was nothing requiring immediate attention the meeting adjourned.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Mrs. Cleveland, assisted by Miss Gregg, held an informal reception at the White house this afternoon.

Senator Morrill although somewhat improved as compared with the worst stage of his present illness, remains in a critical condition. His disorder is inflammation of the bowels.

Secretary Whitney said to-day that there is no truth in the report that he has resigned, and added that he had no such intention.

The president vetoed twenty-nine more pension bills to-day.

Secretary and Mrs. Whitney gave a dinner in honor of President and Mrs. Cleveland this evening.

THE PAYNE BRIBERY CHARGES.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The senate committee on privileges and elections was addressed this morning by Congressman Butterworth who advocated the investigation of the charges of bribery in connection with the election of Senator Payne to the senate. The committee will meet again to-morrow, for the purpose of discussing the evidence laid before them and endeavor to reach a conclusion as to whether or not an investigation shall be made.

[illegible] EMIGRATION COMPANY.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A certificate of the incorporation of the United States and Congo National Emigration company, of this city, has been filed. The object of the company is to [illegible] and operate a line of steam vessels from Baltimore to the Congo country, in Africa, touching at intermediate places, for the purpose of emigration and commerce. The capital stock is fixed at $[illegible], which may be increased [illegible].

TO REPORT FAVORABLY.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The house committee on foreign affairs to-day decided to report favorably the bill authorizing the president to appoint military and naval attaches to foreign legations. Also the bill to protect submarine cables.

WASHINGTON'S SALVE is guaranteed to give immediate and permanent relief to all suffering from Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica and Neuralgia. [illegible] years. Used and endorsed by the leading physicians of [illegible]. All druggists.

MASONIC PICNIC NEAR ALBANY

Events in the Sporting World—Ex-President Arthur Leaves New York—Conviction of Two Milwaukee Anarchists.

[illegible]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—A [illegible]-months-old baby of [illegible] Wagner was taken sick with cholera infantum Saturday last. Monday the family physician prescribed medicine which was prepared by druggist J. M. Reid. Soon after administering some of the medicine the little one was seized with convulsions and death ensued. Examination showed that the druggist had erroneously filled the prescription. The coroner will investigate the case.

The coroner's inquest took place over the body of the child to-day. J. M. Reid, druggist, testified that in compounding the prescription he used [illegible] instead of [illegible]. The jury returned a verdict of death from cholera infantum and censured Reid for not having been more careful in putting up prescriptions.

AGREEMENT TO REDUCE RATES.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—There was a meeting of the managers and agents of railroad lines running east held at the Palace hotel to-day, each line being represented. J. C. Stubbs, general traffic agent of the Southern Pacific company, was in the chair. It was unanimously agreed to reduce rates to all points east, and to make the uniform rate of commission compulsory upon all agents, the figure to be $3 commission on New York tickets, $2 on Chicago tickets and $1 on tickets for points west of the Missouri river. A second meeting will be held to-morrow to ratify the rates agreed upon yesterday, when the agreement will at once go into effect.

DEATH OF SILAS W. SANDERSON.

Silas W. Sanderson, ex-judge of the supreme court, died here at [illegible] o'clock this evening. He was a native of Vermont, aged [illegible], and came to California early in the fifties, settling down to the practice of law in Eldorado county, where he held several public offices. In 18[illegible] he was elected supreme judge of California to the short term, and in 1864 was re-elected. In 1870 he resigned, to become attorney for the Central Pacific railroad, by which corporation he has been since retained. He leaves a wife and four daughters, who are at present traveling in Europe.

AID FOR THE VANCOUVER SUFFERERS.

STATE DISPATCHES.

MASONIC PICNIC NEAR ALBANY.

ALBANY, June 24.—The Masonic picnic was a great success. Three thousand people were present, and it is estimated that 1000 vehicles were in the grove. The address of Past Grand Master Chadwick was well received and pronounced a masterly effort. A bounteous lunch was served and everybody made happy, after which the recitation of Miss Mary McKee, of [illegible], "The Vision of [illegible]," was rendered with [illegible] masterly elocutionary powers, and was highly applauded. A number of short and interesting Masonic addresses were made by [illegible] G. M. Clow and other prominent Masons. The affair, taken as a whole, was a complete success and reflected great credit upon those who had it in charge and was highly appreciated by the participants.

Howland of New [illegible], Mass., and Peter Milne of Brooklyn, N. Y., each had a paper on "Specifications for cast iron pipes." The visiting members are guests of the Denver Water Works company, who gave a banquet at the Albany hotel to-night in honor of the delegation. The convention will elect officers for the ensuing year to-morrow and adjourn.

EX-PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Ex-President Arthur left the city this afternoon for New London. [illegible] He stepped up to the platform at the [illegible] and nearly fell at the top step. Recovering himself he entered the car. The ex-president looked pale and worn. Several friends [illegible] to see him off. To one of them he said: "My only trouble is in my stomach." Then he added, laughingly: "You know how good it [illegible] to be." In reply to a question, Dr. Peters said his patient was progressing favorably, [illegible] without doubt would be benefited by the change of air. "He has had a siege of it," said the doctor, "but will get along now."

AN ANARCHIST CONVICTED.

MILWAUKEE, June 24.—The jury in the case of the anarchists John Protzman and Herman [illegible] this morning brought in a verdict of guilty as to the former and not guilty as to the latter. It was shown that Protzman took the leading part in the riots at the Bay View rolling mills. The case of Henry [illegible] is now occupying the attention of the court.

MILWAUKEE, June 24.—At a quarter past [illegible] to-night the jury in the case of Henry [illegible], charged with riot, returned a verdict of guilty.

THE TELEGRAPHERS' UNION.

[illegible], June 24.—Thomas O'Reilly, who was elected president of the telegraphers' union, said yesterday that he should start on a general tour all over the country [illegible]. He will go to every city as far west as California, and all over Canada, where there are unions. He said it was true that the telegraphers' union had gone over in a body to the Knights of Labor, although they maintain their distinct organizations.

AN EDMUNDS RESOLUTION.

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 24.—The republican convention of Washington county to-day refused to refer and unanimously adopted a resolution that "the honor and interest of Vermont and of the nation require that her sons, accepting our nominations as senators of this county, shall in good faith, by their votes use all proper exertions to the election of George F. Edmunds to the United States senate."

JURISDICTION OF CIRCUIT COURTS.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Senator George to-day introduced in the senate a bill to restore the jurisdiction of circuit courts. It provides that whenever, under the laws of the United States, the jurisdiction of civil courts depends upon citizenship, said courts shall not thereafter have jurisdiction, unless the amount in controversy shall, exclusive of costs, exceed the sum of $5000. It repeals all laws in contravention to the provision of section 629 revised statutes, which gives circuit courts cognizance of any suit to recover the contents of any promissory note. It re-enacts and declares said provision to be in full force. Its provisions are not to apply to any case now pending.

TERRIFIC GLOVE FIGHT.

[illegible], June 24.—Mattew Millett and Wm. McDonald engaged in a terrific glove fight at a sporting resort to-night. Five rounds were fought when the police interfered and the fight was drawn. Both men were badly punished.

A FARCE.

PORTLAND, June 24.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Without touching at all on the right or wrongness of the resolutions passed at to-day's meeting of the board of trade, in support of the Northern Pacific, could anything be more ridiculous or stultifying than the way in which they were put through? The meeting was a special one called for another purpose, and the constitution expressly forbids other fresh business being done, as the secretary explained. But it appears there was ample stock of parliamentary ability to override such a small thing as a part of the constitution, so the form is promptly gone through of adjourning the meeting and then calling it over again without those present leaving their chairs. What a farce and travesty on law and order.

This is truly a land of liberty, but the liberty appears to all in the wrong side. I hope you will denounce such methods for what they are worth.

Effect of Gladstone's Journey to Scotland.

MANIFESTO OF JOHN BRIGHT.

The Expulsion of the French Princes—The Count of Paris Issues a Manifesto Predicting the Downfall of the Republic.

NEW YORK, June 24.—G. W. Smalley's London cable special to the Tribune: Gladstone is back at Hawarden, after his Scotch campaign, which a good observer describes as short, sharp, but not decisive. Edinburgh and Glasgow gave him magnificent receptions. His friends are delighted to discover that his voice has stood so much strain without serious injury. Gladstone himself was delighted by the continuous demonstration of affectionate admiration wherever he went, but the political result of this remarkable effort is dubious. The public mind is perhaps more bewildered than enlightened by his three eloquent discourses. Gladstone meets criticism on the home rule and land purchase bills by saying that both are dead for the moment. To the question "What do you offer the country in their places?" he answers that the only thing that survives is the principle of self-government for Ireland. But Morley says that the main consequences and conditions of the bill as well as the principle of home rule, are alive. [illegible] insists that the land purchase bill is also alive, and declares that he never will be a party to creating an Irish legislature with power to settle the land question. The English and Scotch public, therefore, find themselves in this dilemma: If they accept Gladstone's statement of the issue they must reject Morley's, and vice versa.

Goschen, who spoke at Newcastle yesterday, brought out the conflict between Gladstone and Morley sharply, but not more sharply than some of the leading home rule papers in England. Gladstone and Morley, for all home rule purposes, are the cabinet, and their present declarations as to what home rule means are irreconcilable. One home rule journal sorrowfully protests that the election is lost unless Morley be drowned.

THE BETTER CLASSES AGAINST HIM.

The Scotsman describes Gladstone as ungenerous in dealing with his opponents, evasive as dealing with facts, and delusive in the region of prophecy. The uncompromising tone of the leading Scottish journal faithfully reflects the opinion of the better classes in Scotland. They used to throng the platform from which Gladstone spoke; now they are absent. But Gladstone has apparently carried with him the great body of the Scottish people. That means a great deal, for the body of the Scottish people are far more intelligent than the English. An appeal to the Scottish democracy is more like an appeal to the American democracy.

The election prospects are, if anything, more favorable to the conservatives and liberal unionists. Efforts to prevent coalition have succeeded in reducing the number of seats, where tories oppose unionists, from eighteen to eight. Tory managers profess themselves confident of the election of 100 anti-ministerialists. Gladstonians ridicule this prediction, but offer no very sanguine estimate of their numbers.

The chief stroke of luck the ministerialists have had this week is Lord Randolph Churchill's manifesto. Churchill put the case against Gladstone's Irish policy lucidly and vigorously, but his scandalous personalities are worth thousands of votes to Gladstone. Every tory one meets deplores his indiscretion.

JOHN BRIGHT'S MANIFESTO.

LONDON, June 24.—In a manifesto just issued to the electors of Central Birmingham, John Bright says: "I do not oppose the views of the government on account of England more than on account of Ireland. No Irish parliament can be so powerful or just as the united imperial parliament at Westminster. I cannot entrust the peace and interests of Ireland, north and south, to the Irish parliamentary party, to whom the government now proposes to make a general surrender. My six years' experience of them and their language in the house of commons and their deeds in Ireland makes it impossible for me to hand over to them the industry, prosperity and rights of five millions of the queen's subjects. Our countrymen in Ireland, [illegible] two millions, are as loyal as the people of Birmingham. I will be no party to a measure thrusting them from the generosity and justice of the united imperial parliament. It is because I am still the friend of Ireland that I refuse to give her up to those to whom the recently defeated bill would have subjected her. If you reelect me, I shall, to the utmost of my capacity, do only what I consider to be for the permanent and true welfare of our country."

CHAMBERLAIN CHEERED.

LONDON, June 24.—Joseph Chamberlain went to Glasgow to-day. When the train stopped at Preston, in Lancashire, a large crowd which had assembled at the railway station jeered and hooted at the dissident leader. Among the cries was this: "You're in the wrong boat this time, Joe."

FRANCE.

THE BANISHED PRINCES.

PARIS, June 24.—Duke de Chartres will accompany the Count of Paris to England and afterward return to France. Duke D'Aumale and Prince Joinville will live together in retirement. The annual hunting meeting at Chantilly forest has been stopped. Prince Jerome (Plon Plon) is at Geneva en route to Italy to bring the Princess Clotilde, his wife and their daughter to spend a season of three months at [illegible], Switzerland. The Count of Paris left the Chateau d'Eu at 11 o'clock. Just before his departure he stood surrounded by his family at the principal entrance of the chateau and bade farewell to 120 persons, who had called to convey to him their sympathy. The assemblage was sorrowful, but orderly, and after the count's departure dispersed quietly. The journey from the chateau to Treport was made without any demonstration. The count embarked at Treport for England at 1 P. M. He will assume the title of Marquis of Harcourt, and travel incognito while in England. A brilliant company, including Rothschild, is awaiting the count's arrival at Dover.

MANIFESTO OF THE COUNT OF PARIS.

LONDON, June 24.—Comte de Paris has issued the following manifesto: "I am constrained to leave my country. I protest, in the name of justice, against the violence done me. I am passionately attached to my country, whose misfortunes have rendered her still dearer to me. I lived there without infringing the laws. For leaving me thence a moment was chosen, just as I returned happy in having formed a fresh tie between France and a friendly nation. In proscribing me, vengeance is taken, in my person, on 3,500,000 voters who on October 4 condemned the faults of the republic which sought to intimidate those daily detaching themselves from the present regime. In me is persecuted the monarchical principle, transmitted as a trust by him who had so nobly preserved it. It is desired to separate from France the head of a glorious family which guided her course for nine centuries in the work of national unity, and which, associated with the people alike in good and evil fortune, founded her prosperity and grandeur. Has France forgotten the happy, peaceful reign of my grandfather and the more recent time when my brother and uncles fought gallantly under her flag in the ranks of her valiant army? These calculations will prove a fallacious light. France will not be misled as to either the cause or authors of the ills she suffers. She will recognize that a traditional monarchy, by its modern principles and institutions, can alone furnish a remedy. This national monarchy, of which I am the representative, can alone reduce the [illegible] of disorder, [illegible] of the country, can alone secure political and religious liberty, restore [illegible] future, give our democracy a strong government, open to all, superior to parties, and with ability which will be the pledge of lasting peace. My duty is to labor without respite in this work of salvation, [illegible] with the aid of God and the co-operation of all those who share my faith in the future [illegible] will accomplish it. The republic is afraid. In striking me it marks me out. I have confidence in France and at the decisive hour I shall be ready."

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, JUNE 25, 1886.

ANOTHER BROKEN IMAGE.

And now some remorseless image breaker, who has been searching into early French history is disposed to think that there never was any such woman as Joan of Arc; or at least that the story that she was burned as a witch by the English is a lie; that there is respectable evidence that the Maid of Orleans returned to her native village and died in peace. Everybody remembers the ludicrous quarrel scene in Dickens's "Martin Chuzzlewit," between Sairey Gamp and her friend and pitcher, Betsey Prig, who, growing weary of Mrs. Gamp's constant reference to the distinguished consideration in which she had once been held by a certain lovely Mrs. Harris, suddenly explodes her pent up impatience in the wrathful and ungrammatical assertion, "Drat Mrs. Harris, I don't believe there was ever no such woman." This suddenly expressed skepticism as to the reality of the amiable, but mythical Mrs. Harris is not a bad illustration of the modern disposition to break the most lovely images of history, to prove that the rosy clouds we saw in youth are but damp, chilly vapor; that our heroes were no heroes at all. The boy who was thrilled with the story of William Tell shooting the apple on his child's head with one arrow while he reserved the other bolt for the tyrant's heart, now learns in manhood that the image breakers have decided that there wasn't any such William and consequently no apple or arrow. The tender hearted girl, who has always thought of Beatrice Cenci as a more lovely, yet not less high souled and heroic woman than the Hebrew Judith, now finds with disgust that Beatrice and her stepmother killed the old husband and father because he was stingy and cross, and they yearned for more life, light, liberty and pin money. And so we go.

Each day finds some dry, groping fact-smelling fellow smearing our idols with pitch, or making some historical fiend shine with angelic splendor. De Quincey says a good word for Judas Iscariot, Froude glorifies Henry the Eighth as a manly prince, who never murdered one wife and rapidly married another without ample justification. Carlyle makes a hero out of that cruel old cynic and tyrant, Frederick the Great, and worships Cromwell and Mahomet, while others represent them as a couple of pious frauds, canting mountebanks in religion and politics. Henry the Fourth of France was a hero to the Huguenots, while historians are not wanting who describe him as a shameless apostate and a reckless debauchee. The historical existence of Shakespeare has been denied by some who think him only a mask for the face of Bacon or Raleigh. Peter, called "the Great," of Russia, is said to have been nothing but a gigantic Tartar, a monster of cruelty, and inexpressibly filthy in all his personal vices and social habits. "Bloody Mary," Robespierre, Catiline, even Caligula and other monsters among the Cæsars, have been whitewashed with considerable skill by some historians, who first pity, then excuse, and finally forget them all their enormities. Queen Elizabeth is written up by Hume and down by Motley. Napoleon, statesman and heroes Thiers and Abbott, seemed to be [illegible] nothing but a [illegible] man of genius who was both a [illegible] and a robber. The immortal George Washington is charged with having used profane language at times both on the battle-field and in the cabinet, and Mark Twain says the only reason he never told a lie was because he never got a good chance. That captivating story of the sweet and brown maid, Pocahontas, whose figure was long a beautiful historical shape of love and humanity, interposing between the head of Captain John Smith and the impending war club of Powhatan—that charming picture has become a dissolving view in our own day. Miss Pocahontas was a well featured but wanton young woman who used to amuse the colonists by "turning a cartwheel," naked as she was, in the market place at Jamestown. It was very painful to lose Pocahontas, but she has gone from the roll of nice people in history, and there seems to be danger that Joan of Arc may yet have to go too, for some grubber in French history begins to whisper like Betsey Prig, that "there never was no such woman."

Really at this rate we shall soon have no saints and heroes left, or rather he that was saint is painted as a sinner, and he that was sinner is pictured as a saint. If the coming centuries whitewash the characters and tone down the harsh lines of our infamous people, and paint our angels as black as devils, how curious the history of our time will read. Ben Butler will stand for urbanity and meekness in camp, court and congress; Grant for arrogance and loquacity, Lincoln for manly beauty, Webster as a light and charming humorist, Mark Twain as a constitutional lawyer and the author of the "greenback," and J. H. Mitchell for civil service reform and methods of purity both in politics and private life. In short everybody will be pulled down from his natural seat to make room for somebody else by some fellow who examines our history with the eye of a ragpicker only to come to the conclusion that in nine cases out of ten "there was never no such woman and that if there was she was no better than she ought to be."

THE FRENCH PRINCES.

The Count of Paris, who, on the death of the Count of Chambord, became the head of the houses of Bourbon and of Orleans; Prince Jerome Napoleon and his son Victor, have been obliged to leave France in obedience to a law lately enacted by the French assembly for their expulsion. The Count of Paris is a respectable man of [illegible] character. It has been proposed often before that he should be expelled, but the proposition has hitherto been rejected on the ground that the republic has nothing to fear from him, but the extremists, under the radical leader Clemenceau, have forced the act [illegible] France. The count of Paris had given no provocation by his public acts or utterances; he is a man of quiet literary tastes, and has spent his life in the composition of a history of our great civil war, during which he served for a time upon the staff of McClellan in the Peninsular campaign of 1862. The real reason for the expulsion of the head of the house of Bourbon is that the violence of the extremists has considerably alienated from the republic the votes of the conservative population, represented by the peasantry, the commercial and manufacturing classes. This defection was shown by the election of an increased number of Orleanists to the assembly last year. The property-owning and property-creating classes in France dread the ascendency of Clemenceau and the extremists as fraught with the spirit of revolution, disorder and social anarchy that was so fearfully exhibited in the horrors of the commune. The royalist party has grown in consequence of the increasing popular distrust of Clemenceau and his clan and the expulsion of the count of Paris is a confession of fear on the part of the radical republicans that he was likely to grow into consequence at the expense of the republic and its radical faction. The expulsion of Jerome Napoleon, who is the second son of Jerome Bonaparte, the youngest brother of the great Napoleon, by his second wife, is an absurd act, for he is a blustering coward, who showed the white feather in the Crimean war; he is a terrible warrior in talk and proclamation; has "a huge mouth that readily spits forth rocks and seas," but he is a politician without a party. This act of the radicals is ominous of the fall of the republic, for it is likely to force the conservative classes of France to choose between royalism and the red republicanism of the commune. Under the sagacious conservatism of Thiers and Gambetta, the property holding and property making classes in France were content with the republic, because it was sure to protect property and preserve order, but property and order are threatened by the course of the extremists, and if conservative France should once withdraw its confidence from the republic as too revolutionary in its policy to be trusted, the republic would tumble into ruin and France take refuge in royalty. Since Gambetta's death France has been without a statesman, who joined genius for government to great powers of popular eloquence. Gambetta reconciled the conservatives to the republic by his moderation and ruled the radicals by his eloquence, and the memory of his immense services during the German war and in the re-organization of the republic on the ruins of the commune. There was a Mirabeau quality about Gambetta; his weapons were those of genius; like Ulysses he wielded a bow that none, since his day, has been able to bend, and since his death the republic has been steadily losing strength with the people.

GOOD WAGES FOR GOOD TEACHERS.

Good teaching, like good preaching, is a noble, natural gift. The difference between a mere drill sergeant and his captain, who is expected to be not only an officer but a humane and gallant gentleman, is not more wide than the difference between those who are endowed with the rare and delicate powers of a true teacher and those who teach as mechanically and monotonously as they would turn a grindstone or weed an onion bed. The difference between the teacher that moulds and inspires the young minds that come under his influence and a teacher that is a mere mechanic is the difference between cyclopedic appetite and culture and sound intellectual digestion. There are many mechanics, but few inventors; many soldiers, but few generals; many clergymen, but few preachers; many schoolmasters, but few teachers. No man or woman can look back at school days without confessing that to the inspiring influence of the teachers, who were born to teach in distinction from those who assumed to keep school they owe their largest product of manhood or womanhood. The scholar at school will grow in spiritual and intellectual fibre, if his teacher has breadth of brain, height of soul and warmth of heart. If the schoolmaster is irreproachable mediocrity and unrelieved dullness, working for school wages until he can dip into something more lucrative, then he is not a teacher any more than a shyster is a lawyer, a quack a doctor, or a clerical demagogue is a preacher.

The low estimation placed upon a teacher's services as shown by the smallness of their wages is not creditable to popular intelligence. In country towns it is generally expected that a teacher will be content with about the same wages you pay not a skilled workman, but a "rough" carpenter. This sentiment could not be current the country over if the importance of a true teacher's work was appreciated. If his only capacity for usefulness was to laboriously teach the boys to read, write and cipher, the teacher might, with some show of decency, be rated as the lowest class of all mechanics, but his coincident work is the noblest and most far-reaching for the moral weal or woe of mankind in the whole range of human cultures. From the vantage ground of close personal contact with his pupils, a teacher who is rich in manhood, of quick and delicate mental tact and moral apprehension, has it in his power to make them men and women that represent loyalty to conscience, at once truthful, manly and humane in their inward and outward life. A mere pedagogue may not be worth any more to the world than a copying clerk or a hodcarrier, but a teacher who has so much of manly moral atmosphere about him that the best impulses of his pupils harden under his influence into sound, sweet character, is worth more a thousand times to the world than the most nimble salesman or the handiest workman that plumbs a house or frames a door. The spirit of Dr. Arnold, not his scholarship, made him a great teacher. Scholarship like his was not uncommon among educated Englishmen but a spirit, fine enough and powerful enough to shape the souls of others, so that his pupils grew into men under his gaze, was his glory and in a greater or less degree every good teacher needs the spirit of Doctor Arnold more than very profound scholarship in order to do good work.

Books are well enough, but character must be based on something better than books to bear any wholesome fruit from its brilliant flower. The function of the teacher must be elevated, not degraded in public opinion, and the education that tells in moral results is not contained in the mere learning or culture of the teacher, whether he be parent, school master or preacher; it lies in the living character of the teacher, not in his culture. If the teacher is a man of moral earnestness in purpose, and sweet, sincere humanity in his daily walk and talk, something of his immortal fire will go out of him into his pupils, to vivify and energize them morally with the stimulating glow of pure and ingenuous enthusiasm for whatsoever things are lovely, honest, honorable and of good report in this world. Good wages for good teachers pays a splendid dividend to the public on the investment; the teachers wanted are not men who pick up teaching hastily, using it as a kind of horse-block, from which they can mount law, medicine or the pulpit; they are not young women who dabble with a school while waiting for matrimony. Low wages means poor teachers. We can afford to build less costly schoolhouses, but we cannot afford to lower the good teachers wages, or we shall lose him for the future. The absurdity of insisting that a person, fit to be trusted to train a child's mind and form its character for good or evil during the most impressible years, deserves to be classed in legitimate value, in proper personal wants and decent necessities with the average man you call to solder a pipe or build a chimney, ought to be evident without argument. There is a great deal of poor teaching in this country, and just so long as well-trained, successful, experienced teachers are poorly paid, so long will poor teaching continue to be common. "Chinese cheap labor" is common enough in all callings, but it never does any good work, and since the end of all education is to make men and women it is not worth while to offer a real man a boy's wages and expect him to accept your offer and do a man's work.

PROOF POSITIVE.

Since the [illegible] have been of the [illegible] county in positive [illegible] that they took any special part in the late election, it may be well enough to give in [illegible] the following letter which was received by a man in the liquor trade in Linn county, two days before the day of election. Its publication will at least stop a good deal of blatant and lying talk which just at this time is corrupting the air. Since falsehood naturally goes along with the infamous liquor traffic, the lying denials of the whisky men, as to the general fact of their "effort" and as to their bargain with the corrupt Mitchell ring, had deceived nobody. The public has not expected to hear the truth from this source and has not been surprised at the denials. Nor will it be surprised greatly at this publication of proof positive of what it already knows to be a fact. The letter below is but one of many to the same purpose. They were sent out by members of the infamous ring in Portland to those persons with whom they have business relations. The Portland whisky ring and the Mitchell republican ring, natural allies and friends, pooled their interests and selected the men to be voted for in every county of the state and to every saloonkeeper in the state letters like this were sent. Following is the letter:

(CONFIDENTIAL.)
OFFICE OF W. J. VAN SCHUYVER & CO.,
PORTLAND, June [illegible], 1886.

Mr. ——, Dear Sir.—Writing you at this time is on a subject that I feel that we both are mutually interested in to an extent that it affects the bread and butter of both of us. We are both engaged in a line of business that is recognized by the laws of the world as honorable and as reputable as any other line, yet by the connivance of an element of cranks the business is taxed to death and our reputation traduced and in addition there is a movement on foot to legislate us out of existence entirely. The last legislature passed a bill that has driven quite a number of small dealers out of the business, in some instances ruining them financially, and placing the trade in the hands of the druggists. At the coming session of the legislature the question of the amendment to the constitution adding a prohibition plank is to be voted upon, and no doubt there will be a dozen bills offered, as there has been in the past three sessions. Now, viewing these matters in their true light, and acting for our protection, the liquor dealers have combined in the effort to have elected such men as we feel confident will give our cause a fair show, not cranks one way or the other. But men who will look into the matter and do what is right. We have selected men of principle, irrespective of party or politics (as, for instance, in your county there are two senators to elect, and I would ask you to do what you can to elect Black and Johnson. One is a democrat and the other is a republican. These men, we think, will give us justice, and we think you will not be ashamed of their record at the next session. Our interests are mutual in this campaign and if the liquor dealers will all pull together—and I trust on election day you will marshal your forces and give these men (Black and Johnson) a rousing vote. Do the best you can, for it is [illegible] your own you are fighting for.

Yours truly, W. J. VAN SCHUYVER.

Here is the whisky ring convicted out of the mouth of one of its leading members, of duplicity and falsehood. Do the people of Oregon propose to allow this infamous combination to continue to exist? We think not!

In Eastern Oregon and Washington, where settlements are rapidly extending, the "grass is growing short" for the countless herds pastured on the public lands. "The range" is no longer boundless and beautiful, but is limited to the narrow spaces between farms, to elevated districts where there is little or no water, and to the regions far remote from the railroads. Herds have been reduced greatly during the past five years, but still the stock business is largely overdone. Such limited range as is left is eaten down and tramped over till the native grasses are well nigh destroyed. Unless the stock business is reformed it will soon die out as a distinctive industry.

Reports from the schools all over the state, given in connection with the accounts of their recent closing exercises, show that they are in a highly prosperous condition. The attendance, on a general average, was about 10 per cent. larger last year than for any former year. Every school of good repute in the state is now fairly prosperous. We are particularly fortunate in having in Oregon a large number of excellent high schools, where an education sufficiently broad and thorough for any walk or purpose in life can be acquired at light cost.

The whole country needs rain, but the region east of the Cascade mountains is especially hungry for it. Throughout the whole Columbia river basin scattering grain fields are "heading out" prematurely. There is danger of a general blight unless the rain comes very soon.

Matrimony seems epidemic. Cleveland gone, Stanley Matthews gone, Lamar going!

DISCOURAGING PROSPECTS.

PORTLAND, June 21, 1886.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

It is quite plain, from the reading of this morning's OREGONIAN, that the prospects of the farmers, especially in Eastern Oregon, are far from encouraging. The cattlemen are probably doing well, but they are, in a measure, independent of the factors which have now got the farmers by the throat. Relying on railroad transportation, large areas have been taken up and planted in grain. The railroad is here, but its rates forbid its profitable use, and it might as well be understood now that the business of agriculture can not be carried on where railroad transportation demands interest on a bonded indebtedness equal to the cost of the road, dividends upon other many millions of watered stock, and running expenses on a scale of extravagance which pays the chiefs and managers princely salaries. The profits of agriculture in the United States are nothing—the farmer and his laborers get nothing more than common day-labor wages. Now, this labor can not stand the pressure upon it in the exactions of railroad and banking corporations. The goose that lays the golden egg is the labor which extracts wealth from the farm, the fishery and the mines. All other business is but the handling of the wealth created by these prime factors. Neither railroads nor banks create wealth, and yet in our civilization they are necessities. But ought not railroads and banking capitalists to see the inevitable trend of affairs. It is not well for the country—it is dangerous to social order—to have the millions working for a bare subsistence, while the wealth they create is absorbed by the few. And it is neither socialism nor communism to point this out. THE OREGONIAN published the fact the other day that the national banks in Oregon had in the past year made 19 per cent profit on their capital. This is not encouraging to the farmers, retail merchants and mechanics who have in the past year made nothing. Capital is demanding the lion's share. Interest is too high, and it is not because money is scarce, for vast sums of money have and are now lying idle in bank vaults in this city.

But to return to the farmer. If he cannot prosper, every other interest must suffer; for the farmers are not only the foundation of all wealth, but they are also the great mass of the population and the consumers of manufactured goods. If the railroads will not haul his produce for reasonable rates, or the goods he consumes for living prices, in a country which must send all its surplus thousands of miles to a foreign country, and import all its manufactured goods 3000 miles by rail, and where the accumulated wealth demands 10 per cent. for the use of money, and refuses to embark a dollar in any manufacturing enterprise to employ idle labor, it seems clear that the farmer must become a helpless serf, or go back to the primeval independence of barbarism. This may seem an extreme statement, but look at the tendency of affairs. Some people say, thoughtlessly, that the laboring classes are poor and distressed because they spend all their earnings for beer and whisky. But this can't be applied to the farming communities.

And before closing allow me to add that the commission men are now generously offering the farmers sacks for the coming harvest for 10½ cents apiece, which cost these merchants and speculators 4½ cents apiece. If they can make this go, then their profits on this item of sacks on this year's crop will be nearly $1,000,000. But the farmers had better turn their cattle and hogs into their wheat and market the crop in the shape of beef and pork.

OBSERVER.

GEN. GRANT IN CIVIL LIFE.

THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN of June 27 will contain the fourth of the series of Gen. Adam Badeau's admirable papers on "Grant in Peace," the subject of this particular article being Gen. Grant's relations to Andrew Johnson—their original concord and the growth of a different feeling. In the course of this paper Gen. Badeau will show that Johnson conceived the idea that with the aid of congress he could reconstruct the Union, and that by making extraordinary advances and by offering extraordinary inducements to the South, he could build up a national party at both the North and the South of which he would necessarily be the head; that Johnson endeavored to win Grant over to the support of this enterprise; that the disgusted the latter and caused him to enter the political field in an active contest for justice to those men with whom he fought. Gen. Badeau's article is supplemented by a letter (now first published) from Gen. Grant to Gen. Sherman, upon the subject of an interview with President Johnson, which gives additional interest to the narration. Gen. Badeau's articles, which have shed new light on many phases of Gen. Grant's many-sided character, are a special feature of THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN.

A Remedy for Lung Diseases.

Dr. Robert Newton, late president of the Eclectic College of the city of New York, and formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, used DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living, and restored to health by the use of this invaluable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that so good a remedy ought to be prescribed freely by every physician as a sovereign remedy in all cases of lung diseases. It cures Consumption, and has no equal for all pectoral complaints.

The best substitute for Tea and Coffee: Ghirardelli's Chocolate. Wholesome and agreeable.

Is frequently the exclamation of one lady to another. The fact is not a pleasant one [illegible] mention but still the act [illegible] kindly one for [illegible] to think [illegible] of the fact that she is not in good health and leads her to seek a reason therefor. LOCAL AND GENERAL.

EXCURSION TO SEASIDE CAMPERS.—[illegible] availing themselves of the [illegible] five days in length [illegible] of the Olympian, accompanying the grand holiday excursion from Ashland and all stations of the O. & C. Ry. to the ocean, leaving Portland July 2 and 3 and returning any time up to and including Monday night, July 5, will many of them take their families to the beach and locate them for the season. The favorable terms of going and coming, [illegible] the low rates entirely cut [illegible] the question will enable to do this without [illegible] neglecting their business. Excursionists can take all necessary equipments for camping with them [illegible] the trips of the Olympian [illegible] the Saturday night boat, which will leave Portland about [illegible] sufficient number of passengers offer to justify it; and it now appears that there will be much demand since many will arrive on the Saturday trains of the O. & C. R. R. and O. R. & N. Co. who will want to take this trip, which they can do and arrive back in Portland on the Olympian either early Monday morning so as to attend the celebration in Portland, or late Monday night as desired. Now is the time to purchase tickets and secure staterooms. No risk is run in doing so as the same ticket is good to go on any of these trips. For sale at Front [illegible] adults $? children [illegible]. Tickets good to return until Sept. 5 may be purchased for those of the family who wish to remain at the beach for only $1 extra for adults and 50 cents for children.

CROWN [illegible] RIVER FERRY.—A gentleman who has [illegible] ferry [illegible] while [illegible] drive [illegible] He wishes to know if this is right and if the ferry is regularly licensed. The ferry is regularly licensed and has been [illegible] long time [illegible] proprietor has probably found that there was a tendency on the part of people residing on the east side to drive down and cross on the ferries there, and has in order to secure their trade reduced [illegible] them. But when people drive from Portland up to the ferry they are [illegible] full rates of [illegible] cents each way. The [illegible] amount [illegible] the river here till such time as the county court or the proprietors of the ferry at [illegible] see fit to reduce their tolls so that the same price can be charged [illegible].

SINGULAR [illegible] MULE.—While some gentlemen from this city were out at the White House yesterday they witnessed a somewhat singular incident. A pair of [illegible] turned [illegible] meadow where [illegible] calf [illegible] In a short time a terrible roar was heard in the meadow and it was found that one of the mules, a depraved old beast, had attacked the calf and was trying to kill it. [illegible] The cow had come to the rescue [illegible] and was [illegible] the [illegible] soft horns [illegible] at the poor little calf which it [illegible] was down. The calf was rescued [illegible] injured [illegible] the calf again and renewed the attack [illegible] conduct [illegible] the part of a mule is of rare occurrence and what the calf had done to provoke it in this instance is not known. That mule is likely to feed on thistles and weeds for a time instead of having a fine diet.

TO MULTNOMAH'S FALLS [illegible].—The Hall street Sunday school excursion to Latourelle falls, with the Wide West to-morrow leaves Ash street wharf at [illegible] A. M. [illegible] Tickets 50 cents, children [illegible] cents. Boat will return at 7 P. M. The day will be spent at the falls rambling in the woods [illegible] fields viewing the falls and [illegible] generally. So low [illegible] the price that families can go. Business men, clerks, mechanics, boys and girls, all classes can not take a day out more pleasantly or less costly or healthfully. All are invited to take [illegible] lunch with them [illegible] refreshments [illegible] provided on the boat. This will probably be the last [illegible] party this season to the most picturesque and beautiful [illegible] around of [illegible] Columbia. [illegible] who can possibly go [illegible] to-morrow at Latourelle falls. Tickets can be [illegible] at the Ash street wharf Saturday morning. Boat will stop at Shafer's wharf, Albina and Vancouver.

OPENING BALL AT CITY VIEW.—The opening ball at the City View house (Stout's) will take place in the new hall on Thursday evening July 1, giving the excursionists by the [illegible] that day a chance to participate. The hall has been built at a large expense and is intended expressly for dancing and parties. The hall is large, being [illegible] feet. Good music will be furnished and everything done to make the merry dancers comfortable and happy. Mr. A. F. Workman, an steward, will have a [illegible] supper served at 1 o'clock in the fine dining room of the hotel, where all who desire may have an opportunity of sampling the good things to be served at the house this season. The ball will be free and all campers and others are cordially invited to attend. After the ball the hall will be placed at the disposal of guests. Parties desiring to rent the hall—where it does not interfere with any arrangements of the guests—for private parties can do so at reasonable terms.

PROBABLY A SUICIDE.—It appears likely that the note published in these columns yesterday signed Charles Brew, Salt Lake City, stating that the writer had taken morphine and placed himself where he would roll into the river when he became unconscious was no hoax. On May 5th a person giving his name as Charles A. Brew, and hailing from Utah, called at the office of the board of immigration. He said he was a clerk and wished to find employment. In conversing with him Mr. Carlisle noticed that he acted strangely, and in making a note of the call he added that the man seemed "lift [illegible]." It is more than likely that Brew really committed suicide as stated in his note, and it is possible that the body found floating in the river yesterday was his.

THE SURVEY OF CRATER LAKE.—The [illegible] boats intended for use in sounding [illegible] lake are finished. The sounding apparatus is being made at Smith Bros. & Watson's and will be fitted to the boats. This done, they will be brought down to Ball's boat house foot of Stark street, Monday morning, where the public may inspect them. On Tuesday they will be shipped south. The road from Medford to the lake is blocked for miles by fallen trees [illegible]

[illegible]

CAUGHT IN THE TENDERLOIN.—Jeff Whalen, a [illegible] and pretty tough citizen was arrested yesterday by special officer Charles Mead, charged with chewing a finger on the hand of F. Perry, a longshoreman. He will have an examination in Justice Bushwiller's court this morning. Whalen and Perry got into a fight and Perry was whaling Whalen, when the latter began biting. The wound is not a light one, and there are symptoms of blood poisoning. Whalen has a mean habit of biting people. Some time since he got hold of Butler the light-weight pugilist and treated one of his fingers the same way.

FOUND FLOATING.—Yesterday morning as B[illegible] wn, [illegible] was taking a gang of stevedores down the harbor to work when opposite the Columbia dock [illegible] noticed a dead body floating in the river. It was secured [illegible] and the coroner notified, who took charge of the remains. An inquest was held and the jury returned a verdict of death by drowning. The body, which was badly decomposed, was that of a man about 5 feet 10 inches in height and apparently about [illegible] years of [illegible]. There were no papers in the clothing to lead to the identity of the man.

NO VERDICT YET.—The [illegible] jury in the case of [illegible] et al. [illegible] street improvement case were still wrangling at 11 o'clock last evening, with no hope of soon arriving at a verdict, or more properly verdicts. Several of the interested property owners were hanging around the court house waiting to find out whether their damages had been increased or not, but finally as midnight approached concluded to go home. From the vast amount of loud talking done in the jury room it is evident that there is a very wide difference of opinion in the case among the jurymen.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Last evening, as the west-side train was coming down Fourth street, when between Montgomery and Harrison, [illegible] Campion and a young man named Gilt [illegible] attempted to get on board [illegible] Campion lost his hold and swung around under the car, his head striking against a [illegible] which rolled him over and prevented him from getting under the wheels. He was knocked senseless and received a cut on the head and some severe bruises. The train was stopped, the injured man picked up and taken to [illegible] Late last evening it was learned that his injuries were not dangerous.

THE DRUMMERS' LICENSE STATUTE.—The case of Emilius W. Bansen, petition for a writ of habeas corpus, was argued in the U. S. circuit court yesterday by Messrs. [illegible] for the city and H. T. and F. W. Bingham for the petitioner. Judge Deady denied the writ and dismissed the petition. The court held that the city ordinance imposing a tax of $? per quarter on drummers did not discriminate against the products of other states as those who go about from place to place soliciting the purchase of goods are required to pay tax whether their employers have a house in this city or not.

TO REMOVE INSANE.—Dr. Cabaniss, the superintendent of the new insane asylum at Blackfoot, Idaho, is in the city. His visit here is for the purpose of making arrangements for the removal of Idaho's insane from Salem to his institution, which he contemplates doing by July 1st. They are thirty-six in number. He says that the institution at Blackfoot is complete in all its details and the unfortunates will be well cared for there as in any place in the country. The doctor is an old army surgeon and [illegible] somewhat of a reputation in the [illegible]

SUGGESTION AS TO AN OPEN AIR CONCERT.—In view of the fact that the street railway will be completed to the gates of the City park within a few days it is suggested that the Fourth of July concert should be given at the park. There are plenty of seats in the shade, plenty of cold spring water and plenty of room. The last concert of the kind was given in the Plaza, [illegible] there was gone [illegible] lack of seats [illegible] comfort. The City park is an ideally fine place for a concert.

BITTEN BY A DOG.—A waiter named [illegible] employed at the Merchant hotel, while walking along [illegible] street in the lower end of the city last night was bitten by a big black dog, which [illegible] by the leg just above the knee. The [illegible] went gunning for the dog, but could not find him. There are too many useless dogs [illegible] that they attack the citizens. When they do the [illegible] of the [illegible] comes up and the dog must die.

[illegible] INVITATIONS.—Those who have not received invitations [illegible] at [illegible] welcome. Tickets can be procured [illegible] including music, scenery and other [illegible] [illegible] should procure them before [illegible] for Ashland [illegible] at the wharf [illegible]

[illegible]

MULTNOMAH ASSOCIATION.—The semi-annual [illegible] meeting [illegible] was held last evening. Several new members were [illegible] [illegible] The next meeting will be [illegible] [illegible] president.

AN ACCIDENT.—A son of Cornelius [illegible] [illegible] the corner of [illegible] yesterday afternoon [illegible] and suffered what surgeons call a Colles fracture [illegible] radius being broken near the wrist and the [illegible] dislocated. He went to the office of Dr. [illegible] took an anesthetic and the fracture reduced and went on his way rejoicing that it was no worse.

A VALUABLE RELIC.—F. Heintz of East Portland has a cane made from the historic war vessel Kearsarge. The stick is [illegible] from the cabin of the vessel and the head of black oak from her ribs. Mr. Heintz will leave for Germany this summer and will take the cane along to show to some of his friends in England en route.

ELECTED.—Hon. Wm. Munger has been elected to fill the vacancy in the board of directors of the Mount Hood Steam Laundry company caused by the departure for California of H. J. Quimby, formerly of this city. At a meeting of the board of directors held last evening Mr. Munger was elected vice-president of the company.

NOTIFY THE MARSHAL.—Societies, manufacturers and merchants who wish to participate in the grand parade to take place on July 5 are requested to notify Mr. L. S. W[illegible], the marshal of the day, of their intention. No license will be granted for advertising without genuine exhibits. A special invitation is extended to manufacturers.

THE PENNSYLVANIANS.—The executive committee will hold a meeting next week, when some thirty new names will be presented for membership. On the second Wednesday in July the regular meeting of the association will be held, when Mr. D. Solis Cohen, treasurer of the association, will deliver the address.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

The Northern Pacific Bureau Work' gets an Endorsement—Aid for the Vancouver Sufferers.

Yesterday afternoon a called meeting of the board of trade was held at its rooms, Vice-President Dodd in the chair, President Marlsay being out of the city. There was a small attendance.

A telegram was read from the mayor of Vancouver, B. C., to Mayor Gates, appealing for aid for the sufferers by the recent fire. The chair appointed Geo. Pope, James Steel, C. F. Beebe, James Laidlaw, A. C. A. Perkes, Sol. Oppenheimer, E. S. Larsen and J. A. Strowbridge. These gentlemen will begin a canvass to-day. Money or clothing will be acceptable. No less than 2000 people are in terrible distress in Vancouver, and there is urgent need for assistance.

On motion a committee of three, consisting of F. Zan, J. McCraken and F. K. Arnold, was appointed to confer with officials of the O. R. & N. Co. and the Oregon Short Line relative to securing low excursion rates to Portland from Eastern Oregon and Southwestern Idaho for the merchants of that section.

A committee consisting of M. Zan, H. C. Eckenberger and Arthur Wilson were appointed to examine into the report that freight was being loaded at Albany and other points in the Willamette valley from San Francisco via Yaquina bay and Corvallis, at lower rates than are charged by the O. R. & N. company from San Francisco to Portland.

MORE BUREAU WORK.

The meeting adjourned, and a minute later when some of the members had left, was called to order again, when the following preamble and resolutions were introduced and passed:

WHEREAS, The interests of the Pacific Northwest and Portland, its commercial metropolis, demand the completion of a competitive line connecting Portland and the Pacific ocean with the Columbia river basin and the Atlantic seaboard; and

WHEREAS, There remain unfinished only 77½ miles of the Northern Pacific Cascade branch, the completion of which will create the competition so much needed, and at the same time open a new and cheap through route from Portland to the most productive portions of Eastern Oregon and Washington, and make Portland the terminus of another and the only unbroken transcontinental line; and

WHEREAS, It is understood that the passage by the house of representatives of the Dolph forfeiture bill as amended by Senator Van Wyck would make it impossible for the Northern Pacific railroad company to secure the capital for the completion of the Cascade branch and great Cascade tunnel; therefore be it

Resolved, By the board of trade of Portland, Oregon, that we look upon the declaration of forfeiture of the land grant to the Northern Pacific railroad company pertaining to the uncompleted portion of its Cascade branch as tending to greatly injure the most vital interests of the people of the Pacific northwest.

Resolved, That we most earnestly and urgently protest against such forfeiture, and that we call upon our representative in congress to do all in his power to prevent such forfeiture.

Resolved, That we most heartily endorse the course of our senators, Messrs. Dolph and Mitchell, in opposing the adoption of the Van Wyck amendment by the senate, and that we commend the broad and statesmanlike views which they have expressed in this connection and which have prompted their action.

Resolved, That the president of the board of trade be instructed to telegraph these preambles and resolutions to the president of the senate, the speaker of the house of representatives, Senator Dolph, Senator Mitchell and Representative Hermann.

THE EAST SIDE.

The Albina Water War—Surprise at Rev. Mr. Ghormley's—Brief Personal and General Notes.

The men employed by the East Portland water company to lay the mains of that corporation into the town of Albina, who were arrested the other day on a charge of trespass, had their trial before Justice Pittenger on Wednesday and were discharged. This is the suit brought by Supervisor Samuel L. Scott, backed up by W. H. Foster et al., which was instigated with the view of preventing the East Portland company from competing with the Albina water works in the matter of an aqueous supply for the terminal city. It failed in its object, however, for the persecuted company has pushed its operations with renewed vigor and now has its mains laid as far as Russell street, and is prepared to furnish customers with water. The result of the war thus inaugurated will doubtlessly be cheap rates—a desideratum, by the way, not to be too lightly estimated by the Albina folks. It is understood the East Portland company will shortly bring suit for damages against Supervisor Scott, Foster et al., and some lively fighting in the courts is looked for.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

On Wednesday evening the residence of Rev. D. O. Ghormley on Eleventh street, was the scene of a happy gathering in honor of Mrs. McCracken, mother of Mrs. Ghormley, who has been living with her daughter for over a year past, and intends returning to her Ohio home on Monday next. The house was completely filled with members of the Presbyterian church and intimate friends, who carried with them a bountiful supply of refreshments. The evening was spent most joyously in music, social converse, games, etc., until 11 o'clock, when good-byes were said and the company took their leave, wishing Mrs. McCracken a pleasant and safe journey.

OFFENSIVE TRAMPS.

The ladies in the vicinity of Eleventh and H streets complain of the insulting behavior of numerous tramps who have lately infested that part of the city. The scoundrels take occasion to visit residences when the men folks are [illegible] home and in numerous instances have made themselves particularly obnoxious. A dose of hotel de McMillan would perhaps have a salutary effect on the vagabonds.

NOTES.

I. T. Brown goes to Eugene city to-day on business.

Justice-elect Bullock yesterday filed his official bond with the county clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Bieschen will depart to-day for Canby to attend the campmeeting.

Mrs. Mattie Hill will depart to-day for North Powder river, where she will remain for several weeks.

Mrs. Mary [illegible] and son of Ramon, Cal., are in the city, visiting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hendee.

Mrs. Caggett and Miss Mila Hill go to Canby this morning to attend the M. E. campmeeting now in progress at that place.

The funeral of Mrs. John R. [illegible] took place yesterday afternoon and was numerously attended by sorrowing friends.

The Misses Adams of The Dalles are in the city, visiting old friends. They will depart to-day for Salem, where they expect to remain for some time.

The G. A. R. boys of this city dined on ice cream last evening at the expense of City Marshal McMillan. Mac knows how to do the handsome thing.

Elder Boyd, pastor of the Seventh Day Advent church in this city, is now at Seattle conducting a tent meeting at that city which is being very largely attended.

Mrs. Elwood Bruner of Sacramento, who has been visiting her brother, H. R. Lewis, of this city, for several weeks past, departed on the Columbia at midnight for her California home.

Prof. W. A. Wetzell and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Cumming and daughter, father, mother and sister of Mrs. Wetzell, went to La Camas Wednesday to spend a day or so fishing in La Camas creek and other streams near that place. They expect to return [illegible].

Hon. John Whiteaker, who recently purchased the Godfrey property on the corner of Fourteenth and H streets, has had the house enlarged and remodeled. [illegible] perfect order and will [illegible] to the new quarters in a few days.

Sumner post, G. A. R., last evening presented Ralph W., son of John Birdsall, with a silver spoon, in accordance with an established custom. The souvenir is engraved with the name and date of birth of the recipient. Ralph was born on the 14th of May last, and gives promise of becoming a leading citizen.

FOREST GROVE NOTES.

FOREST GROVE, June [illegible].

Miss Millsap, of McMinnville, is visiting with the Misses [illegible].

Wild berries are getting [illegible]. They are beginning [illegible].

Mrs. Colon McIntosh of Portland has been visiting her mother, Mrs. [illegible].

Dr. Ward has returned from [illegible], accompanied by his daughter Jessie.

The poultry yards of J. M. Garrison have received some valuable additions from the East recently.

Mrs. Scott and her son Beecher have been visiting old friends in the Grove for several days. Beecher came out on a bicycle and returned in the same manner.

Miss Ida Blank returned home last week after a year's absence visiting among relatives at Olympia and Tenino. She received a right glad welcome home from many friends.

Miss Maggie Macrum, a student at the New England conservatory of music, writes that her school year will close on the 24th inst. She then will go to north Pennsylvania and visit with a school mate for a couple of weeks, then to Pittsburg and Chicago visiting relatives at both places. She expects to resume her studies September 1.

Clover hay is now being cared for. D. C. Stewart expects to have twenty five tons in his barn by the last of the week. The weather has been very favorable for such work.

People generally are now simply waiting for the harvest. Fall grain will give an unusual yield, if the weather proves favorable for filling. Most spring grain, from the lack of rain, will be very short.

Hon. W. J. McConnell will build a fine residence in Moscow, I. T., this summer. The plans and specifications have already been prepared by Mr. H. McDonald, the well known architect of this place.

Mr. R. Samson of Portland and Messrs. Wheelock, James and Haskell Marsh, of the Grove, have just returned from a fishing excursion over on the Nehalem. They are not much inclined to talk about the trip, which leads one to the conclusion that they didn't get many fish.

Nellie J., wife of J. R. Griffin, postmaster, and daughter of Henry Buxton, died of consumption on Monday at 3 P. M. The funeral took place at 10 A. M. to-day, and was very largely attended. She leaves a husband and one infant child. Her age was but 18. "Nell," as we knew her, was born and reared in the Grove, and as she grew in years every day seemed to develop a character marked for its loveliness. With her womanhood came that modest bearing which, coupled with popular ways, made her a general favorite among all. The tenderest sympathy of many friends are extended to the sorrowful husband in this the grief of his early years.

FOUND DEAD

An Unknown Man Dies by the Roadside in the Outskirts of Spokane Falls.

From the Review, June [illegible].

C. K. Bridgman discovered a dead body yesterday afternoon at a point about 100 yards south of the small bridge on the road to Capt. Nosler's place, the extension of Riverside avenue. Mr. Bridgman had a horse staked in that vicinity, and when he went after it his attention was attracted by the buzzing of many flies in a thick clump of low brush, and on drawing near discovered the body. Coroner Penfield was notified and repaired to the spot. The man had crawled into a clear space in the midst of a thick growth of bushes and had cut a handful of the brush to put under his head. He was lying on his left side, his arms folded, his hands inside his vest, the legs slightly drawn up and his coat carefully laid across his hips. He occupied a perfectly natural position, as though death had overtaken him in sleep. There was no sign of a struggle and undoubtedly the poor fellow had no premonition of his end—death resulted probably from heart disease. The doctor expressed it that in his opinion he had been dead only about twenty four hours.

On the body was found a razor, pocket knife, eye glasses, five combs, shaving soap, matches and a few other articles that could not lead to his identification. The only scrap of paper found on him was a common thin, leatherback blank book, well worn, with many leaves torn out. On the last leaf in the back of the book was the name "John McFarland, Portland, Oregon," and on one of the inside leaves was the name "Thos. Murray, Portland, Oregon," both rudely spelled out in pencil. The only other writing in the book was the following, which had evidently been written in by some one across the page, as the writing was in a good business hand, and was intended as a direction for the owner to follow, probably in the search for work: "From Tacoma to Seattle by boat, thence by Newcastle coal road to Benton station, and enquire there for contractors and further information." There was no way of telling whether either of the names was that of the dead man, as they appeared, but were in the same hand and may have been intended only as a memoranda. There were no marks of violence on his body.

Coroner Penfield has telegraphed to Portland to see if either of the parties named are missing. He wore gray pants, a colored shirt and a blue sack coat; was five feet six inches in height, heavy set, evidently sandy complexion, with a red mustache and light side whiskers. He looked like a foreigner and was probably between 40 and 45 years of age.

The infants have taken the town. They attend the Casto to-night and accompany the [illegible] at [illegible] M. Saturday.

COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, June 24.

Overland receipts include car mill machinery, 60 sks sulphur, a piano, 11 bdls spades, 15 ctes handles.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Last 48 hours: [illegible] ctls wheat, 568 bbls flour, [illegible] ctls oats, [illegible] lbs wool, [illegible] lbs hides, 9 cs eggs, 8 cs butter, [illegible] cattle, 40 sheep. Also 500 ctls wheat, 100 bbls flour, 36,250 lbs wool, 1380 lbs hides from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The vessel movement for the week has been active for the time of year. Up to noon to-day seven arrivals are noted and two were ordered off outside to other ports. Arrivals were Jane Porter, Mitredale and Candidate seeking, and Remonstrant, Beemah, Cynosure and Jessie Osborne with prior business. The Remonstrant and the Beemah will probably load at Astoria. The Germania sailed with a wheat cargo, leaving the Helensburgh, Tillie E. Starbuck and Baringa in river with full holds. The Jessie Osborne came from Shanghai and was not listed as coming this way. Other vessels at Asiatic ports will probably do [illegible] from time to time without notice, as they sometimes make the run across ahead of advices, and exporters having them in hand prefer to keep quiet. This may be good policy, but the arrival of a few under such circumstances always justifies the expectation of more coming the same way, and in the end it is doubtful if the shipper makes anything by refusing to give out the vessels he knows to be coming. On spot a wooden vessel the Director accepts lumber business to Shanghai, and this is the sum total of work here during the week. Exporters hardly care to take new business and agents find a very poor field to work in at the present time. Iron is nominally [illegible] asked for orders, with not the least visible response. Probably others of the incoming fleet will be met outside with orders for San Francisco, the market here not being at all favorable or promising. The engagements list footing up a large total for the time of year and it will hardly show any material reduction in the next three months.

REGISTERED TONNAGE STATEMENT.

FLOUR—Receipts for the week were [illegible] bbls valley and [illegible] bbls Walla Walla, against [illegible] and [illegible] bbls respectively last week. The demand in valley is almost offset by the increase in Walla Walla, more of the latter coming for shipment. The local trade is quiet but steady, the outside call being very even. Stocks of valley will show a gradual reduction for a time.

A reduction of 10 cents per barrel in standards has been made in order to compete with San Francisco mills in the sound. New quotations are $4 @3 90 for car lots and less. Walla Walla brands sell 30c below standard valley.

WHEAT—Receipts for the week were [illegible] valley and 804 tons Walla Walla—a total of [illegible] tons against [illegible] tons valley and [illegible] tons Walla Walla the preceding week. This increase in the receipt is only in small part the result of new business, for accounts agree that transactions have been rather limited. The market is probably in better shape than a week ago. At least it is less irregular and buyers have done better in the way of bidding. Vessels being supplied have a cheaper rate of freights than those lately cleared, which permits some more being paid for wheat. Again it was found that holders would not let go to any extent at the very low prices and the nearness of engaged tonnage forced new business. Valley bids have been $1 10@1 12½ but we are creditably reported a sale at $1 15 and deem $1 12½@1 15 to be the market. The extreme may not be readily obtainable but only the weaker holders would accept less. In the Walla Walla grade next to nothing is reported here, and interior business is not definitely stated. For round lots here $1 07½ may be expected, report saying even better could have been had in the past two days. The range is $1 06 @1 08, although many lower bids are put out. Of the fleet arriving in the past week three will take salmon as part or whole cargo. Others are for grain loading, and have more or less cargo stuff in sight.

While New York and Chicago have improved slightly in price for the week the foreign markets present an easier front and cargoes could not now be sold at obtainable prices of ten days ago. Heavy British imports for two weeks past combined with the usual influences at work at this time of year have a depressing effect. New crop wheat will soon be finding its way toward the consumptive markets. The American visible has not been reduced to the expected extent and the United States is promising a full average crop. British and continental crops are passing the danger period without particular complaint. Australia will have nothing for export or at least very little but India is expected to furnish liberal supplies. The position of wheat is weakening [illegible] and it is quite in possible to see any sign of possible improvement before the new harvest is fully determined. It is hardly possible that something may arise to change present conditions, although a very confident nature is required to really anticipate such a possibility. The American exports are slipping in in excess of last year. India now has available the quantity [illegible] last year. On the 8th inst. the quantity afloat for the United Kingdom was [illegible] bushels, against [illegible] bushels a year ago. The comparison is as follows:

	1886	1885
California and Oregon	10,144,000	[illegible]
Chili	[illegible]	1,081,000
India	[illegible]	1,120,000
Atlantic port	[illegible]	[illegible]
Russia	144,000	880,000
Sundries	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]

Here is a statement of British supplies from September 1 to May [illegible], compared with the two last years:

	1885-6 Qrs	1884-5 Qrs	1883-84 Qrs
Wheat	[illegible]	[illegible]	8,190,408
Flour	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Continental wheat	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Commenting upon the above a London correspondent says: "Here we have a total supply of over [illegible] qrs less than last year and nearly 1,000,000 qrs less than in 1883-84. Beerbohm's list gives the stocks of wheat flour in first hands June 1 at 1,800,000 qrs against 2,400,000 a year ago, which is by no means so great a reduction as many people predicted for this date two or three months ago, when one prophet hazarded the opinion that stocks would be reduced by this time to a little over 600,000 qrs."

The San Francisco market is not greatly changed from a week ago, but is quite inactive. Vessels are in wheat berth for Australia and Mauritius and it is believed that a steady movement toward Australia will obtain.

The following is a comparative statement of deliveries from English farmers in ports into the United Kingdom and quantities afloat for the weeks ended as below:

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Governments were quiet and very strong. Railroad bonds were less active. Sales 14,000. Fluctuations were small and final prices show irregular changes with no improved advances or declines. The news this morning affecting stocks was almost all of an unfavorable character. The strike of the switchmen on the Lake Shore road, however, was the prime element of trouble. The advices from Chicago indicated that the disaffection among the workmen is liable to extend to other roads and at the same time that the officials among the other lines are inclined to make common cause with the Lake Shore and thus settle the question at once. The market opened decidedly weak and generally ½ to ⅝ per cent lower than last evening's closing figures, while Northern Pacific preferred was off ⅞ and Lake Shore 1 per cent. In early trading, however, the market was strong, under the leadership of Western Union, but gains were generally for only small fractions, and the advance was checked before 1 o'clock, after which time prices sagged off and continued weak through the remainder of the day, subject to slight reactions. The general weakness carried Western Union down in the afternoon. Lackawanna was slowly supported through the [illegible] day. The market closed heavy at or near the lowest figure reached.

The Mail and Express says: Mining stocks were strong, but dull. Mono sold at $1 85; Rappahannock [illegible]; Caledonia B. H. [illegible]; Sierra Nevada 40; Mono [illegible]; Yellow Jacket [illegible]; Bulwer $1 [illegible]; California [illegible] and Virginia $1 25.
